Feather Graphics & FeatherG Introduction

Feather Graphics represents the Artwork of Helen Casey-Green and photographic work of Stephen Casey-Green. Helen worked as a freelance graphic designer and illustrator to the print industry, then for a number of years in secondary education, specialising in print making and photography. She has established Feather Graphics to represent her paper-based work and FeatherG to represent her textiles work.

Print making by Helen Casey-Green.

Each collographic print is unique. The technique involves a complex method of applying several layers of ink to the plate, in order to create one print, the resulting prints can therefore be dramatically different. The plates will sustain small runs from a single plate up to approx. 20 prints, but more usually between 1 and 10 prints.

Intaglio prints are produced without the use of acid, using drypoint and engraving tools onto Rhenalon or copper plates.

Photographs by Stephen Casey-Green.

Enlargements are taken from original photographs by Helen and Stephen Casey-Green. Landscapes and surface textures are recurrent themes, they work widely in their local area of North Bucks., and along the coastlines of South Wales and Cumbria.

Textiles by Helen Casey-Green.

A number of techniques are represented in Helen's work, silk painting, silk screen printing, Batik (wax resist) and Acid Etch (Devoré) onto silk velvet. She works on different weights of silks and the highest grade of silk velvet, to produce unique results from her own designs. Everything is hand painted and may include the use of original silk screens. Helen also has a range of soft furnishings for interiors and produces other unique items, such as made to measure waistcoats and full length, silk velvet cloaks and capes, again hand painted from white.

Commissioned work is welcomed, please contact us to discuss your ideas.
